A NOTE FROM MIKE:

This edition is an update of the 2015 version; a full revision will be completed in 2023. The selections reflect personal preferences in style, pedagogical importance, historical relevance, musical challenge, enjoyment, and enrichment for performers and audience. As some of the pieces may be out of print or assigned to a different publisher, you may have to search for a specific piece. While the majority of the works are scored in the 5-4-4-4 format, I have noted other instruments and pieces that can be performed with a reduced instrumentation (*). Categories are based on rhythmic style and tempo, as I believe these are very effective ways to introduce works for educational and programming purposes. In many cases specific albums are recommended as well the publisher's recordings, often with sample scores. With on-line resources such as NAXOS JAZZ, I-Tunes, YOUTUBE, YOUTUBE Music and SPOTIFY, much of the music is available, especially recordings by the original artists. With fewer "brick & mortar" record stores and print music stores, on-line research is a requirement but will also add much joy to the search for literature for your ensembles. Best wishes to you as you go beyond the typical sources of jazz ensemble literature. I know you will be rewarded and your students will thank you. Finally, I express my deepest gratitude to Bob Waggoner for his years of friendship and support. For both of us, this project has been a labor of love. Enjoy!
